WAS THE DEVIL ONCE AN ANGEL?

Isaiah 14:12 reads in the King James Version, “How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! How art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations!” Many have taken the word “Lucifer” to refer to Satan. In fact, our modern culture accepts this word as being synonymous with Satan. Modern culture, however, should not be our standard for applying definitions to the Bible. For example, if you were to look in the dictionary for the definition of the word “baptism” a number of things would show up. No doubt among those things would be sprinkling and pouring of water onto someone’s head. Should we accept this modern definition for baptism and insert it into the Biblical text? Absolutely not. We find by studying the Bible that baptism is a burial (Romans 6:4) and therefore we must be immersed in water to be properly baptized. The same is true here. Just because modern society accepts the word Lucifer to refer to Satan does not necessarily mean that this passage is referring to Satan. In contrast to the KJV, the American Standard Version reads, “How art thou fallen from heaven, O day-star, son of the morning! How art thou cut down to the ground, that didst lay low the nations!” You may have noticed that in the ASV the same word that is translated “Lucifer” in the KJV, is translated “day-star”. This is the better translation of the Hebrew word and you will find that most modern-day translations use this same phrase to translate the word.

The idea of Lucifer as Satan first got started. Well, according to Smith’s Bible dictionary, Jerome first taught this. Jerome lived from 331 A.D. to about 420 A.D. He was best known for his work in translating the Old and New Testaments from Greek and Hebrew into Latin. This became known as the Latin Vulgate. It was completed in 405 A.D. The Latin Vulgate was the predominant translation used from this time well into the second century. It was not until the reformation when the Bible was translated into other languages (English and German) that the Latin Vulgate lost its popularity. The KJV was influenced and its translators chose to use the Latin word here in their translation. That is how we got the word “Lucifer” in the KJV. But was Jerome’s understanding of this verse correct?

The word “Lucifer” merely means in this passage, “morning star” or “day-star”. This was a common name given to ancient kings to honor their position of power in the world. In fact, friends, there is no Bible passage that conclusively says that Satan was once an Angel. Was Satan a created being? Yes, he was. Was he fallen from grace? Yes, but, the Bible does not specifically say whether he was an angel or not. I will readily admit the possibility of that being true. But let us be careful not to be dogmatic in saying that is the case and go beyond the evidences found in God’s book.
